MASSIVE VOTE FOR

DEFEND OUR PENSIONS – PREPARE A PUBLIC-SECTOR STRIKE

UNISON members in local government have voted overwhelmingly to defend pensions. By 8:1 in the consultative ballot, UNISON members demand industrial action to defeat an increased retirement age of 65, and to retain the final salary scheme. Public-sector workers are being attacked across the board – the NHS, fire-fighters, civil servants, teachers, etc. The UNISON leadership must move swiftly to organise industrial action, in co-ordination with other public-sector trade unions. A one-day public sector strike, especially before the General Election, would shake New Labour to the foundations.

- Prepare a one day public sector strike before the general election
- No increase in the retirement age – keep the final salary scheme
- A living pension for all pensioners at a minimum of £320 per week – with annual increases linked to average earnings
